

DAN HAEDICKE // DH4

"A talented guitarist whose melodic brand of jazz is well featured on his debut recording as a leader, In All The Ways." - Los Angeles Jazz Record

"Upbeat and optimistic moods delivered with aplomb." - Jazz Weekly

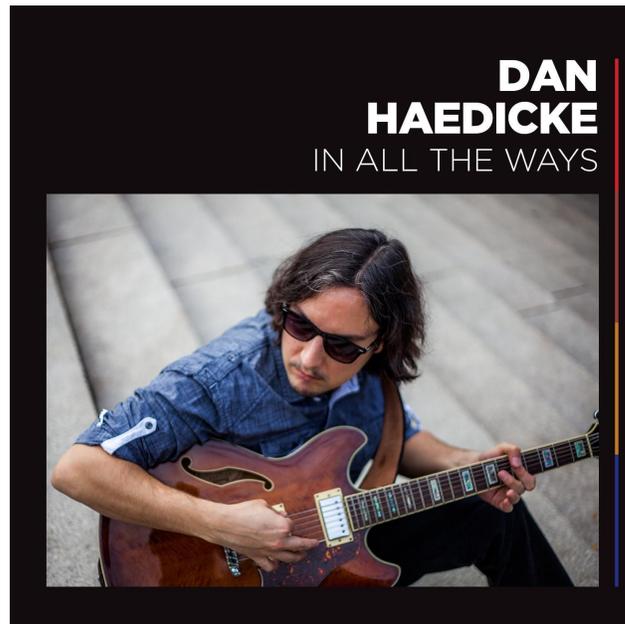

"The man sure has the chops to engage listeners with his melodic brand of jazz." - Brooklyn Roads

A superior guitarist, Dan Haedicke (pronounced Ha-dik) has developed his own melodic and bluesy jazz voice. In All The Ways, his recording debut as a leader, is filled with warm and memorable melodies, concise solos, and music that is both creative and accessible. Dan founded the Kquality label in 2007 as both a vehicle for his recording projects and as an opportunity for him to work as a producer with such artists as the modern New Orleans soul singer Tondrae Kemp. He has worked extensively as a guitarist (including with Lil' Fame, Cisco Adler, The Diplomats, Rich Boy, and B. Slade) and as a producer. The live performances of his DH4 and the release of In All The Ways put the focus on Dan Haedicke's jazz guitar playing and composing, showing that he is a talent well worth knowing about.

Of the new CD, Dan says, "I wanted to write songs for the album that had melodies that listeners would take away with them." His seven originals on In All The Ways contain many hummable melodies, concise and memorable solos, and an inventive use of singers on several of the selections. While at times a little reminiscent of the classic CTI recordings of George Benson and Hubert Laws, Dan Haedicke's brand of melodic grooving Latin and Brazilian jazz is very much his own. The melodies of "Aquamarino," "Dajo," "If The Stars" will stay in one's mind long after the music is over.
